○ ABOUT ME

From an early age, I've been fascinated by technology – taking apart computers just to see how they work. After completing three intensive years at a software academy, I found my true calling in web development, with a deep passion for JavaScript and modern frameworks.

Today, I'm a skilled full-stack developer, fluent in HTML, CSS, JavaScript, TypeScript, Angular, React, Node.js, and Express.js. I build clean, scalable, and responsive applications, always with user experience in mind. My GitHub is packed with personal projects where I experiment with new technologies and push my skills forward.

As a dedicated freelancer, I thrive in fast-paced environments and love solving real-world problems through code. I'm hungry for growth, open to challenges, and ready to contribute to impactful projects from day one.
